WARHAMMER SPILABORÐ

Kristófer og Andrés

- Vildi alltaf gera almennilegt spilaborð

A collection of various grey plastic components scattered on the foam base. On the left, there is a large grey cross-shaped piece. Next to it are several black cylindrical pieces. The main group consists of numerous black rectangular and square pieces of different sizes, some with textured surfaces, and a few grey rectangular pieces. A small blue handwritten mark is visible near the bottom of this group.

A collection of grey plastic components on the foam base. One prominent piece is a grey mechanical-looking part with a long barrel, labeled with the number '32' in blue ink. To its right is another similar but smaller grey part. Below these are several smaller grey rectangular pieces and a tiny screw-like component.

A collection of grey plastic components placed within a circular cutout in the foam. The components include a large grey rectangular piece with a textured surface and a smaller grey piece with a pointed top, possibly representing a character's head or a specific mechanical part.

A series of rectangular blocks of white foam stacked together on the right side of the workspace. Several circular cutouts of varying sizes are visible on the top surfaces of these blocks, some of which are marked with blue ink circles or question marks.
